

Malaria - Free June

“Mosquitoes don’t need dirty water. They need neglected water.”

June marks Anti-Malaria month; a reminder that malaria and other mosquito-borne diseases rise sharply during monsoon season.

The surprising part? Mosquitoes can breed in tiny amounts of stagnant water inside homes and workplaces within days.

Your quick weekly prevention routine:

- Empty coolers & plant trays
- Cover buckets & water tanks
- Clean AC/fridge water trays
- Keep balconies & terraces dry
- Change stored water weekly

Even a bottle cap of stagnant water can become a mosquito breeding spot. Small negligence creates big outbreaks; prevention starts with everyday habits.
